HARRISON ART CONSULTING

2075 KENSINGTON, SLC
801.860.3109

Harrison Art Consulting (HAC) in Salt Lake City is an “independent art advisory service.” So what does that mean? HAC serves private and commercial clients, individual collectors, corporate offices and non-traditional art spaces by helping them collect art. Buying art can be an intimidating process; HAC guides you through it.

THE GOAL HAC maintains relationships within art communities nationwide and abroad. Unique in that they do not maintain an inventory, Harrison and her associates are able to offer an objective, conflict-free commitment to clients and guarantee the finest art for the most economical cost.

As an example of what HAC does best, owner Tiffany Harrison describes a recent project, “I helped a client find the perfect piece for his office. From start to finish it was about what he not only found to be appealing, but also about what the painting represented to others of him and what he does for a living. It was a gratifying process to see the evolution of where he started to the final product hanging on the wall. Through our services we partner with you and take into consideration architecture and interior design to create your space.”

THE ART GUIDE Originally from Houston, Texas, Harrison did most of her growing up in Salt Lake City and graduated from the University of Utah with a B.S. in Political Science and a B.F.A. in Modern Dance. This broad range of interests has served her well in her current roll as art consultant. And so has the landscape of the mountain west. She says, “When you’re based in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, it’s hard to get away from the beauty that surrounds you. Most clients are looking for something that is a representation of that mountain beauty, be it traditional or contemporary.”

Harrison has toured Europe to see the art of the masters and spends time in New York galleries looking at cutting-edge work. “This really helps me form an appreciation for a variety of styles,” she says. “Out-of-towners are pleasantly surprised at the number of talented artists to be found in Utah. I definitely think the art being produced is slowly shifting to a more contemporary edge, but as I’m sure artists have found, most folks around here still prefer traditional landscapes.” Harrison appreciates both, and helps her clients decide what kind of art they will love living with.

Zelebration!

THE ARTIST A self-taught painter and mother of four boys, Nielsen says she has always “dabbled” in art, whether it was pastels, calligraphy or creating banners for her sons’ elementary school.

After moving around the country for nine years with her husband, Scott, who played for the Yankees and White Sox, she enjoyed a successful acting and singing career. While mixing her vocal cd, “i am free”, a celebration of God’s healing power in her life, she was inspired to capture that freedom with acrylic paints on metals, acrylic, glass, wood and other surfaces.

“The themes and titles of my deZigns are inspired by emotions and colors connected to the Chakras, and I began painting them. The vibrant colors literally shifted me from darkness to light! I felt peace and oneness. I just love color—bold color—and now I paint from a place of joy.”

Nielsen takes her joy to others, working frequently on commission. “I absolutely love working on projects where my clients and I create together—customizing my originalZ and limited editionZ to achieve their desired look and feel.” She has collaborated with architects and interior designers like Charles Allem of CAD International on installing 22 of her pieces in the Mira Hotel Hong Kong Kowloon. Ten of Nielsen’s pieces hang in the DW Bistro in Las Vegas as well as iFreedom Direct in Salt Lake City; she has had work commissioned for homes in Mexico, here in Utah as well as other states. She is currently working with a company in Toronto, Canada, to produce tables and lights incorporating her images.

THE SYNERGY “Pamela’s art was a perfect match for my studio,” says Ballroom Utah owner Martin Skupinsky of his 3,000 sq. ft. SLC dance studio. “The variety of colors and movement in Pamela’s artwork complements the creativity and variety of the dances that we teach and choreograph.” Nielsen says, “I paint what I feel. For me, it’s about energy, color and movement.”

ROBERT KELLY GALLERY

449 MAIN, PARK CITY
324.615.7125

Forget that so-called distinction between “fine art” and “craft”. The Robert Kelly Gallery represents over 30 artist/craftsmen who meticulously hand-craft furniture and accents – and it’s all art. Artists specializing in handmade, high-quality pieces.

THE STORY After 26 years in the furniture business, Bob and Nancy Zierk relocated to Park City from Chicago to enjoy the mountain lifestyle. The gallery is named after their two children, Robert and Kelly.

The Robert Kelly Gallery was born on the Fourth of July, 2008 – not as a furniture store or art gallery, but as a “Furniture as Art” resource. Their goal is to provide you with a variety of pieces for your home, hand-made by expert, award-winning craftsmen.

THE GALLERY At Robert Kelly, Bob and Nancy represent artists who make unique and customized furniture designed to last for generations. They also offer upholstery, accessories and gifts to round things out. Some pieces are considered artwork, other pieces are more functional. In either case, each piece is created by a skilled craftsman who takes pride in his work. “We are proud to represent these artists,” says Bob.

This quality of furniture is meant to last, but that doesn't mean prices are out of reach. Believing everyone should have the opportunity to own fine design, Robert Kelly Gallery offers customers the option of one of a kind furniture or furniture made to their specifications with different price levels.

In addition to one of a kind pieces made by local artists and craftsmen, Robert Kelly offers exquisite leather from Hancock and Moore, beautiful upholstery from Vanguard, iron accents from Jan Barboglio, and a great selection of lamps from various resources. Unique furnishings for your home.

Robert Kelly Gallery has recently moved to a great new location at 449 Main in Park City. Please stop in to check it out!
